Gasless ecology car stirs fun

LIVERMORE — Jim Culpepper has become accustomed to people shouting statements in an encouraging, positive vein to him as he "drives" to work.

And small wonder — it's going on a year that Culpepper has operated his Person Powered Vehicle (PPV) from his home in Springtown to work on S. Livermore Avenue with the Alameda County Probation Department.

Just what is a PPV?

It's a three-wheeled, three-gear, chain-driven, pedal-pushed vehicle made of high-impact plastic that is operated by either one or two persons. Culpepper's PPV comes complete with hand and parking breaks and he's added turning signals and a horn.

Despite ribbing from his co-workers, Culpepper rides his PPV to work as often as he can — can being if it's not windy or if he doesn't need to make a trip into Oakland on county probation business. Culpepper bought his PPV last year. He had to order it from Florida for none are available in this state although he says they were sold in Livermore about four years ago for $400. His cost somewhat less.

Wouldn't a bike be easier and less expensive?

"Sure a bike is simpler but this is more fun. I got it for the novelty," Culpepper explains. "I like the exercise and its ecological. It's good for your legs, lungs and heart."

Besides, his PPV allows him and his wife to go for rides together — get shouted at.

Memorial services set for valley

Observances of Memorial Day will take place throughout the valley this weekend.

Memorial Day services will be held Sunday, May 30 at Old St. Raymond's Cemetery in Dublin. The community is invited to attend the services which begin at 11 a.m.

Veterans of Foreign Wars Post 9968 Commander Al Seguin, Chaplain John Rutter and American Legion Post 606 Commander John Kellogg will conduct the observance.

A symbolic memorial wreath will be placed on a grave at the cemetery by VFW Auxiliary President Dawn Rutter and American Legion Auxiliary 580 President Liz Reece.

Local scout units will create an avenue of flags.

On Monday, May 31 in Livermore the Memory Gardens Cemetery on East Avenue will host the Veterans of Foreign Wars, American Legion and the Fleet Reserve when they conduct Memorial Day services at 11 a.m.

Gold Star Mothers, Girl Scouts and Brownies will also participate in the ceremonies.

American flags will be placed in the graves of all veterans in the cemetery. A firing squad and color guard will salute the veterans.

Refreshments will be served to spectators and participants.

Banks, schools and government offices will be closed Monday. There will be no mail delivery.

Animal lover loses petition

LIVERMORE — "I had 94 signatures on my petition.

"I just wanted to get six more — make it an even hundred — and then I was going to send it to Washington."

An upset Sally Salas, champion of mistreated animals, has lost the petition she carried everywhere with her for a month. She accosted people in church, on buses, in shops and on the street to ask them to pledge not to buy coats made from the fur of animals that were trapped.

A member of the Humane Society headquartered in the nation's capital, Sally feels trapping assures a cruel death not only for fur-bearing animals but for other creatures such as deer that unwittingly walk into the steel-jawed snares which break their legs and hold them fast.

Sally thinks she lost the petition at the Granada shopping center in Livermore, where she had gone to the pet store.

She's checked the area and hopes anyone who may have picked up the few sheets of paper will call her to arrange to have her pick it up.

A nurse, Sally is home mornings and evenings at 447-1587.

Not as luxurious as the famous Holland Tunnel, perhaps, but this is one of three popular culverts which some Foothill High School students use to travel under Interstate 680 from Val Vista to their school. Note actual student entering culvert.

Proposed school tax limit hikes analyzed

The owner of a $40,000 house in Pleasanton could pay $68 or more in additional taxes in 1976-77 if both revenue limit increase measures on the June 8 ballot are approved.

Both the Pleasanton and Amador school districts have tax hike proposals on the ballot. The latter district includes Dublin, Foothill, Amador and Valley Continuation high schools.

Assistant Superintendent for Business Services Doug Rose has figured that the owner of a $40,000 home in Pleasanton would pay an additional $44.70. The owner of a similarly valued home in the Amador district would pay $24.80 in 1976-77.

The levy on houses of $50,000 value would be $31 (in 1976-77) in Amador and $55.88 in Pleasanton.

The tax rate at the end of the three-year period in the Amador district (if Measure A gains a majority of "yes" votes) would be $3.325. It is now $2.698 per $100 assessed valuation.

Pleasanton is asking for an 81.8 cent hike over a period of two years. The district's rate is now $3.252. If passed, the rate could hit $4.07 in 1977-78.

The high school district is seeking 24.8 cents the first year, 19.9 cents the second and 18 cents the third.

Pleasanton is projecting a total income of $6,897,522 with a "yes" vote. That sum would fall by some $400,000 if Measure B is voted down.

Amador projects a total income for 1976-77 of $9,142,051 if the voters favor Measure A. The figure would be only $8,662,051 if the "no" vote prevails.

The increase in the revenue limit is applied to the total average daily attendance (ADA) of the districts.

Present estimates from the office of Dr. David Carlisle, district director of research and development, indicate the high school district will have a total ADA of 5,263 next year, including 4,480 in regular grades 9-12. The remainder is counted by lumping summer school, adult education, Regional Occupation Program, Educationally Mentally Retarded, home teaching, Valley Continuation and tuition.

Pleasanton, if estimates prove out, will dip slightly in total ADA to 5,291. This includes 5,095 expected in grades K-8.

District leaders have emphasized the additional funds are being sought simply to keep standards at the present level.

With this in mind, a continuing number of informational meetings are being scheduled.

Five evening get-togethers are planned for Tuesday, June 1; Mission Park (Morris residence), Pleasanton Heights (Davidson), Del Prado (Kramer), Silvergate - Briarhill in Dublin, and Pleasanton Valley (Piper).

On Wednesday, June 2, the following informational coffees are slated: Vineyard (Hoggatt residence), Alisal (Gabler), Del Prado (Shah), the first two for 10 a.m. and the latter for 10:30 a.m.; Castlewood (Monteath residence) at 1 p.m. and Pleasanton Valley (Larson) at 8 p.m.

District administrators, board members and school principals are speaking at the various gatherings.

Las Positas overcrossing

Funding prospects dim

PLEASANTON — Don Savery thinks that the state of California could use some of its sudden $800 million tax money surplus to keep kids from running across Interstate 680 near his Val Vista home. All it would take, said Savery, is a relatively measly $2.5 million to build the Las Positas overcrossing, something the state has put in writing twice — once in 1964 and again in 1971.

Meanwhile, Foothill High School Students continue to run across the freeway, apparently at much more than the rate of five per day mentioned at the city council meeting Monday last Monday.

This reporter visited the site next to 680 at the stub end of West Las Positas Boulevard with Savery Friday and witnessed at least three or four youths running across the freeway in the space of 10 minutes around noon.

We saw another dozen or so go under the freeway, some in a four foot culvert where the kids have to stoop, and others in a nice, tall seven or eight foot culvert.

The culverts get lots of traffic from kids who prefer it to taking the school buses. It's faster and some kids feel the buses or are too crowded, though Mike Ananis, in charge of the district's school buses, said they are loaded within legal limits. Seating is three to a seat and the students don't like more than two to a seat, said Ananis.

Whatever the reason, students love crossing 680 over and under the highway and Savery thinks that the $800 million in the general fund in Sacramento could fund some worthy highway projects like the Las Positas overcrossing at $2.5 million or at least a special $450,000 pedestrian overcrossing at the spot.

Assemblyman Floyd Mori didn't agree when we talked to him Friday.

The surplus is in the general fund and it ought to go for general fund purposes like welfare, mental health, property tax relief for the aged and such purposes, said Mori.

The $800 million may sound like a lot of money, but it will be needed just to augment the programs which already have been passed, said Mori.

For example, he has arranged another $1 million on top of the $10 million already voted for Alameda County mental health programs, he said.

"Yesterday (Thursday) we passed a budget some $250 million above the governor's budget. We passed a school bill yesterday over $200 million," said Mori.

Perhaps the most interesting facet of the tunnels and the running across I-680 is its apparent illegality. Students have reported being stopped by highway patrolmen and being read the riot act for their actions.

Youths have cut holes in fences near the flood control channels in Val Vista so they could get access to the culverts. A "no trespass sign" has been posted on the fence, which abuts city and county property.

Savery thinks that you can't stop a flowing tide. Even if you mend the fences, kids will climb over them or scale private property fences to get to those culverts, he said. The real solution is to give them a safe pathway to 680 and then a safe overcrossing. He'd sure like the highway department to get its hands on some of that $800 million.

State issues warning if dry year repeated

SACRAMENTO — Local water agencies throughout the state should work up plans for 1977 that deal with what may be "a drought equal to the worst that has occurred in (their) service area(s)," according to a state Department of Water Resources report issued last week.

Pointing to this season, the third driest on record in the state, the report sets out the consequences for farmers and ranchers as well as urbanites and suburbanites if 1976-77 also is a dry season.

The report, noting current water rationing in Marin County and conservation programs in Santa Cruz, Morro Bay, Sonoma and Yolo Counties, spells out step-by-step suggestions for assessing supply and need, evaluating, and setting drought strategies.

This year's drought had left Alameda County Flood Control and Water Conservation District officials — Zone 7 — "comfortable, but not sure" about supplies for the summer.

The district will get an extra 5,000 acre feet of water — 1.63 billion gallons — from the state department. The water will be stored in the underground water basin.

The zone's chief of water resources division Mun Mar last week said "projections for imported water in 1977 will be met," and that he sees "no problems" for the district's customers.

The state report suggests increased water conservation, repair of leaks, reduced waste, new pricing schedules, distribution of water-saving kits, and rationing.

It says farmers might reduce acreage and use crops that require less water. Leaching should be postponed and water should be applied with "greater efficiency."

Cutting off water to annual crops to preserve perennials also is recommended.

"Urban areas generally will weather the dry year with little difficulty," the report continues, even though some areas already have significant water shortages.

Agricultural losses throughout the state currently total $315 million, two-thirds of it in cattle and dairy production. Twenty-four counties have been designated disaster areas by the federal government.

"Water storage supplies are adequate in the state's large reservoir and conveyance systems," according to the report. "The State Water Project will meet its contracted entitlement deliveries and make some surplus deliveries."

Water quality maintenance in the Sacramento - San Joaquin Deltas will be handled through state and federal projects to keep salt water intrusion to a minimum.

The equivalent of 28 million barrels of oil will be lost because of the drought's effect on hydroelectric generation, "but power supplies will be sufficient because of excess power generated elsewhere and transmitted to California," according to the report.

The drought will not affect recreation prospects in the Bay, the Delta and Lake Tahoe. The report lists recreation conditions expected for 67 bodies of water throughout the state.

White water boating, river floating and rafting will be changed because of low river flows, the report continues, noting many operators are shifting to smaller rafts or to inflatable kayaks.

The state office has set up a "white water condition" telephone at (916) 322-3327.

"The state will face severe fire problems," officials claim, with fires already burning timbered areas that normally do not burn until July or August.

Fires "will be more frequent, hotter and harder to control," says the report, adding "wildland fire protection agencies must take special measures this year to alleviate potential destruction."

Adverse, long-term effects on fish and wildlife populations also are expected. Striped bass, shad and other anadromous fish may be severely hit, "and will be noticed in two to four years when the fish return from the ocean to spawn."

Steelhead in coastal streams from Mendocino County south will suffer significant losses and trout in marginal habitats — principally lower elevations — will be confined to deep pools when river flows become very low.

"No serious long-term effects are expected on wildlife, but reproduction of deer, quail, sage and grouse and chukar partridge may decline because of light cover and forage," the state says.

Waterfowl populations are expected to decline.

Oak caterpillars devour valley leaves

If your favorite old oak tree is looking frayed and chewed-up — don't panic.

It will probably survive the current onslaught of oak moth caterpillars, and the second infestation which is coming in late August.

Picturesque old oaks in the valley are being defoliated as hungry caterpillars munch their way through the middle phase of their lives. The creatures also gather in large numbers around doorways, patios and pools, leaving behind excrement, called "frass," to add to their unwell-comeness.

According to Burt Kurdener of the Department of Agriculture office in Livermore, some areas especially hard hit this season are Foothill Road in Pleasanton, Mines Road and the Del Valle Dam area.

But the problem can be found anywhere there are oaks, which is from the valley floor to a 4,000-foot altitude in the surrounding hills, he adds.

The caterpillars have been found everywhere in Alameda County. "Many trees have lost all their leaves but the trees will grow new leaves and seldom, if ever, die," says county agricultural commissioner Thomas E. Shoemaker.

"The oak moth population is quite high this year and we expect a large second generation in late summer," he predicts.

The University of California Agricultural Extension Service suggests not spraying. But if the caterpillars get too pesky, they suggest two types of control. One is a material named carbaryl, which is effective and safe when the label directions are followed.

The other is a biological control, available at costs comparable to the chemical, "bacillus thuringiensis" (BT), a bacteria that paralyzes the larvae in about 20 minutes and is not damaging to other animals.

Although this year's infestation will not kill off any but the weakest of trees, successive years of dry weather could finish off large numbers of trees, because moisture is stored in their leaves and when caterpillars go after the moisture supply, the tree's life support system is devastated.

Cyclist nabbed speeding, 13 violations noted

LIVERMORE — Police arrested a motorcyclist allegedly traveling 50 mph in a bike lane and noted 13 separate violations he had incurred, police reported Friday.

James David McSharry, 21, of 534 Escondido Circle was booked on suspicion of reckless driving and resisting arrest.

According to reports, officer Richard Davies spotted the silver-gray cycle traveling northbound in the bike lane on Murdell Lane near Pearl Avenue at approximately 50 mph. The motorcycle had no license plates, Davies noted.

He made a U-turn to follow as the cyclist drove through Max Baer Park and then turned back onto Murdell. Detective Roy Manning then took up the chase, following as the suspect turned onto Encino Drive and drove into a garage on Escondido, where he was arrested.

Upon his arrest, the suspect allegedly said, "It was stupid for me to run but I didn't want a ticket," according to police reports.

Police ran a check on the vehicle and suspect, noting the following violations: excessive speed, driving to the left of the roadway, driving in the bike lane, driving an unregistered vehicle, driving with no stop lights, no brakes, no rear view mirror, no horn, a bald rear tire, driving without a license, and driving a vehicle out of his classification.

The cycle was towed to a local garage, and McSharry was booked on suspicion of reckless driving and resisting arrest.

Search for dog leads police to pot

LIVERMORE — Police attempting to corral a large dog suspected of biting a person earlier in the week discovered three healthy marijuana plants growing in the backyard of the home.

Officer Laurence Anderson was dispatched to a North M Street home Wednesday to issue a citation to the residents for violation of the city's leash law. The dog had run away but would return soon, he was told.

Anderson returned at noon Thursday when officer Mike Newton called for assistance to contain the large dog. Attempts to contact anyone at the home failed, so they walked around to the back to see if someone was there.

Both officers then spotted three marijuana plants, each four to seven inches high. Sgt. Leonard Wickstein arrived, and told Anderson to dig up the plants.

The leafy weeds were uprooted and carried out on a white frisee found in the yard.

Police are seeking a complaint against a juvenile at the house for suspicion of cultivating marijuana.

Burglars steal flute from Mendenhall School locker

LIVERMORE — Burglars broke into a locker at Mendenhall School earlier this week and stole a flute valued at $236, police said Friday.

Karen Lyn Wills told police she secured the flute in her locker Wednesday and went home. She discovered the theft the next day, seeing that the locker had been forced open.

The flute, made by Gemeinhardt, is a model 25P, serial number 299108, and was housed in a black leather case.

Police have no suspects in the theft.

Youth arrested carrying stolen tools

LIVERMORE — A 12-year-old boy carrying a toolbox near Railroad and L streets late Tuesday was arrested after changing his story twice before admitting the tools were stolen, police reported Thursday.

Officer Robert Springer spotted the youth about 10 p.m. carrying a toolbox. First the youth claimed the tools belonged to his father, but then said he found it near the railroad tracks. Springer then arrested him on suspicion of misappropriation of found property.

At the station, the young suspect admitted that he and three other youths had spotted a locked pick-up truck with its window partially open. They entered the truck and one youth removed the box, but handed it to the 12-year-old in custody when Springer's police car was spotted.

The suspect was released to his mother with a notice to appear in court. Police are seeking the other youths for questioning.

Livermore fees excessive?

How not to attract industry

LIVERMORE — Fees for a small commercial development run 313 per cent higher in Livermore than the average of nine other surrounding communities while fees for a larger industrial development run 218 per cent higher.

These figures are contained in a report based on a survey of development fees conducted by Community Development Director Emanuel Gorland and Chief Building Inspector Herb Street.

A total of 28 communities were surveyed with responses received from 24.

Ten jurisdictions were charted in the development fee report — Dublin, Concord, Hayward, Milpitas, Pleasanton, San Leandro, Stockton, Walnut Creek, Fairfield and Lodi.

These 10 were chosen primarily because all are in a common geographic area of competition (east of the San Francisco Bay and connected by major freeways roughly forming a triangle with Sacramento at the apex). Also, a "distinct similarity of purpose — to attract commerce and industry sufficient for a balanced community" was seen with the exception of San Leandro which provides a comparison with an established industrial area and all fee structures are roughly based on the same need to defray costs of facilities required.

Development fee data collected on an example of a small commercial development indicates Livermore's total fee of $89,904 is 313 per cent higher than the average total fee of $2,398 of the other nine communities and is 86 per cent higher than Dublin, which has the second highest total, according to the survey.

Given as a typical commercial development is a 14,000 square-foot building on a one-acre site with a 150-foot frontage and 28,000 square-foot impervious surface. A four-inch sanitary sewer connection is needed with plumbing fixtures including four water closets, four lavatories and two sinks.

Those fees quoted by all communities surveyed to develop this commercial site are for storm drainage, sanitary sewer, water storage, and water connection.

Livermore's fees totaled $9,904; Dublin, $5,370; Concord (with no water storage fees), $3,510; Hayward (no storm drainage or water storage fees), $1,603; Milpitas (no storm drainage or water storage fees), $1,780; Pleasanton (no water storage fees), $3,920; San Leandro (no storm drainage or water storage fees), $940; Stockton (no storm drainage or water storage fees), $580; Walnut Creek (no storm drainage or water storage fees), $1,135; Fairfield (no storm drainage or water storage fees), $770, and Lodi (no water storage fee), $2,510.

Total development fees in Livermore for a larger industrial development are $15,730 — 218 per cent higher than the $5,604 average total fee of the nine other areas, 45 per cent higher than the $10,850 total fee of Lodi, and 54 per cent higher than the $10,189 total fee of Dublin, the report notes.

Cited for the survey as a typical industrial development is a 30,000 square-foot building on a five-acre site with a 400-foot frontage and impervious surface of 50,000 square feet. The sanitary sewer connection is four inches with a 1½-inch water meter and plumbing fixtures including three water closets, one urinal, two lavatories and one sink. There are 60 employees.

Those fees needed for development are storm drainage, sanitary sewer, water storage and water connection (1½ inch meter).

Total fees in Livermore are $15,730; Dublin, $10,189; Concord (no water storage fee), $7,375; Hayward (no storm drainage or water storage fee), $2,055; Milpitas (no storm drainage or water storage), $6,043; Pleasanton, (no water storage fee), $6,893; San Leandro (no storm drainage or water storage fees), $1,030; Stockton (no storm drainage or water storage fees), $2,424; Walnut Creek, (no storm drainage or water storage fees), $1,165; Fairfield (no storm drainage or water storage fees), $2,310, and Lodi (no water storage fee), $10,850.

(The survey notes that the fees indicated are not intended to be exact and may vary according to local interpretation and application of formula, schedules and definition.) "It may be important to note that the difference between Livermore fees and other area fees diminished with increase in size of development, and the ratio of fees to total investment is highest at the small development level and may be prohibitive in some cases," the survey states.

It also explains most schedules were firm at the low end of the development scale, but as developments increase in size and complexity, fees are more likely to be worked out individually.

"Regrettably, response to a request for any alternate methods of paying fees spread over a period of time was negative. In all cases, payment is required either at time of permit issuance or prior to occupancy," the report states.

One idea that has surfaced in Livermore recently to help attract industry and commerce to locate here is the amortization of development fees.

Memorial weekend mishap

Five members of a San Jose family were hospitalized following an auto accident Friday afternoon on 580 just before the 680 interchange. According to officials at the scene, a truck carrying the family to a vacation spot went out of control and flipped over while traveling southbound. Gail Wilson and her two daughters, Laurel and Yolene, sustained minor cuts and abrasions as a result of the accident. Dave Boyer suffered lacerations, and his daughter, Tricia, had cuts and abrasions. All were treated at Valley Memorial Hospital and then transferred to Kaiser Hospital in Santa Clara, where they are listed in satisfactory condition.

Strike threatens rodeo march

LIVERMORE — The granting of a strike sanction against the Livermore Rodeo Parade is said to be the subject of a meeting set for the day before the annual event.

This information was released late Friday afternoon by the Livermore Jaycees, sponsors of the June 12 parade.

"The Livermore Jaycees have been notified of a meeting between the Central Labor Council and Local Musicians Union 510. The subject of this meeting is to grant strike sanction against the Livermore Rodeo Parade. The meeting is to be held June 11, the day before the parade," the Jaycee release states.

"An agreement between the National Music Educators Conference and the Musicians Union prevents school band participation in an event where a union band has not been hired," it continues.

"The Jaycees vow that 'under no circumstances' will they hire a union band 'to insure the privilege of being able to volunteer (our) time to coordinate the parade."

Those reasons cited by the Jaycees for their refusal is that all entrants are on a voluntary basis with no reimbursement; all people working on the parade volunteer their time solely for the enjoyment of the community; students should not be bound by an agreement with an any union, and such an agreement is between the Musicians Union and the Music Educators' Conference and does not directly involve the Livermore Jaycees, rodeo parade, or the citizens of the community.

"If strike sanction is granted and the music educators honor the picket lines, this year's parade may be without school participation," the Jaycees state.

Murray Dist. to quiz parents on facilities

Some 3,000 families of Murray School District children will be asked whether they favor the status quo as regards housing of seventh and eighth grade students or conversion of an existing K-6 or K-8 school to solely junior high grades.

At a meeting earlier last week, the Citizens Advisory Committee for the district reviewed possible questions to be included in a survey to be conducted via mail in early June.

Final wording of the survey and distribution of forms is at least a week away.

The district has been looking at options open to it since a bond issue defeat in March and a resultant turnaround of funding by the State Allocations Board.

What shapes up as a crucial meeting is scheduled for Wednesday when James Orsburn, acting chief of the Bureau of School Planning, will meet with the citizens group along with Allan Richards of Orinda, expected to be hired by the district in the capacity of a demographer.

The key meeting, open to residents of the Murray district, is scheduled Wednesday at 7:30 p.m. at Frederiksen School, 7243 Tamarack Dr. in Dublin.

CAC's meeting this past week had been changed from Wednesday to Thursday.

All responses to the question will be returned to a post office box number in Dublin and compiled by Applied Technology. Data should be available within five weeks of the survey.

At present, Wells Intermediate on Penn Drive is the only strictly seventh-eighth grade facility in the district.

Murphy support

John Murphy, Alameda County Supervisor for District 1, has gained the endorsement of the Citizens for Law and Order, an Oakland-based organization with chapters throughout the state.

The CLO has also endorsed John P. Vukasin, Jr. for judge of the Alameda County Superior Court, attorney Michael Snyder for judge of the San Leandro-Hayward Municipal Court, and Joe Bort and William Rumford in Supervisorial districts 4 and 5, respectively.

Rides to polls

Irene Vincent's campaign committee will furnish transportation to the polls on Primary Day, June 8 for senior citizens and the handicapped. Call the campaign office at 657-4848 or 651-4360 for ride reservations.

Vincent is a candidate for Alameda County Supervisor, District One.

Miller signs

Jerry Gerich of Citizens for Don Miller reports that Miller's campaign committee has been "literally overwhelmed" by the positive response from valley residents wanting Don Miller campaign signs.

Gerich says this has made it difficult for the 33 people helping with the signs to keep up with demand.

Gerich regrets that some residents have experienced a delay, and promises that every effort will be made to get the signs to those who have requested them.

Disclosure asked

Don Miller issued a press statement on campaign financing this week:

Don Miller's Zone 7 campaign has no hidden financing. We challenge the other candidates and the Valley First Committee to disclose their contributions and expenditures just as we do.

Even though the law applying to this election is weak and only requires disclosing those who contributed more than $50, we are disclosing every contribution of $1 or more and all our current expenses.

This disclosure will be given to all valley papers five days before the election, and no contributions will be accepted after that date.

We have also voluntarily limited each cash contribution to a total not to exceed $25 per family. Donated professional services will be disclosed at actual value.

This procedure of full disclosure corresponds to the Livermore disclosure ordinance enacted at Don's urging in order to prevent large, secret last-minute contributions.

We challenge other candidates to do as we do. This insures that valley residents will have full information on which to base their voting decisions.

Prop 15 endorsed

Livermore City Councilman Glen Dahl-

backa is among numerous valley residents who have announced their support for Proposition 15, the Nuclear Initiative.

Other prominent Livermore and Pleasanton citizens favoring the initiative include Lawrence Livermore Laboratory chemist James Rinde, organizational development specialist Larry Heindel, Jeff Brandt, nuclear physicist John McClure, physicist A.M. Winslow, physicist K.E. Froeschner, research engineer Dale Miller, biologist Jason Minkler.

Also endorsing Proposition 15 are attorney David Harris, physicist J. David Cummings, educators Sandra Henderson and Karen Campbell, Nina Hughes, Charles Hazen, Tony Bright, Fayette Wimberly, Philip Cooper, Elva Cooper, Inez Kirkbride, nurse Sue Vogtlin, circulation manager Stephen Wheelock, writer and poet Ron McNicoll, photographer Peter Griffith.

Also supporting the initiative are Sharon Bolden, Barbara Watson, Jpan Felton, Robert Clark, Ann Bennett, Jerome Jones, Eleanor Schofield, Daniel Johnston and Janet Morelock.

Cooperation needed

Cooperation between Zone 7 and other valley agencies is essential if the valley is to control its own destiny, Archer Futch said in a press statement issued this week.

"If we abdicate our responsibilities, regional government will take over," he said. As an example he pointed to the request by the Regional Water Quality Control Board for the Livermore-Amador Valley Water Management Agency (LAVWMA) and Zone 7 to reach an agreement on wastewater management for the valley.

Zone 7 actually approved an agreement with LAVWMA several years ago, Futch stated, but later backed out after opposition from the county.

More recently, he noted, unanimous agreement was reached by a sub-committee of LAVWMA and Zone 7 board members after many meetings and months of study.

"Incredibly, this agreement also went down the drain after a Zone 7 board member who had negotiated vigorously denounced it before the vote by the full Zone 7 board," Futch said.

The Zone 7 board, Futch said, failed to negotiate in good faith. The present board, he said, does not understand the cities' position or their responsibility for land planning.

His recent experience and understanding of local government, Futch believes, will enable him to help achieve the needed cooperation between Zone 7 and other valley agencies.

Futch is a candidate in the June 8 race for three seats on the Zone 7 board of directors.

Schooner cooled

This young prairie schooner rider had the coolest (and out of the wind, too) seat in Thursday's Bicentennial Parade through Dublin. Students from all Murray district schools participated with colonial and frontier-clad youngsters the order of the day. The miniature Betsy Ross', Ben Franklin's, and Daniel Boones, almost 1,000 strong, marched from the Dublin Rollarena on Amador Valley Boulevard to Frederiksen School. In excess of 1,000 residents looked on.

Parents learn about school bus standards

By CATHY TALLYN
Times Staff Writer

DANVILLE — The morning after the tragic bus accident that took the lives of 29 Yuba City High School students, 150 Los Cerros Intermediate School children set off for Yosemite in a chartered bus.

Their parents were understandably uneasy at first as they tried to shake off visions of the crash.

Yet, "As parents, we went home feeling quite relaxed," San Ramon Valley Unified School District board president Harold Zuckerman said.

Zuckerman went to the departure site with his child early as did many other parents.

They checked over the bus and interviewed the drivers about their age, driving habits and ability.

"I never saw so many popular drivers," Zuckerman said.

Parents also observed how many adults would be accompanying their children and how organized the field trip actually was.

The organizers of the trip came away with an excellent report card, Zuckerman said.

He praised the condition of the buses and how the chaperones knew exactly which students they were responsible for.

Because Zuckerman and other parents in the school district have questions about standards for contracted bus service, Arthur Bachelor, district business manager, has put out an information sheet on it.

The district transports 4,850 students each day, logging 2,908 students each day, logging 2,908 miles per day on district buses, or more than one-half million miles per year.

Don Capling, district supervisor of transportation, recalls that the most serious bus injury during his 16 years with the district has been a broken arm.

"There are, of course, the normal bruises, lacerations and tooth injuries caused by turning, bouncing and braking," Bachelor said.

"I believe our drivers are highly conscientious and reliable, in addition to being skilled drivers."

"I think the high rate of mileage per injury is indicative of this driver competency," he added.

Contractors providing buses for the district "must meet the same requirements that the district must meet. Buses are checked annually by the California Highway Patrol (CHP) and drivers must possess both a Class I license and CHP bus driver's certificate.

"Contractors providing charter or tour buses do not meet the same school bus regulations." They must meet Public Utility Commission requirements and maintain a Class I license, but the CHP certificate isn't required.

"We do not make a physical check of each contractor's bus when we contract for service. Neither do we check the validity or possession of the driver's license and/or certificate," Bachelor said.

The district contracts with Martinez Bus Lines, Sierra Lines, Patchett's, AC Transit and Greyhound.

Certificates of insurance are required from Martinez, Sierra Lines and Patchett's. Greyhound and AC Transit are required to carry insurance to maintain their PUC charters.

San Ramon Valley Unified School District flags are being flown at half mast this week in observance of the accident last week.

SR school trustee says letters 'untrue'

DANVILLE — Letters from teachers here asking for salary increases apparently failed to soften the heart of one trustee.

San Ramon Valley Unified School District trustees received 15 letters from district teachers saying they need raises because inflation is eating up their salaries.

Trustee Joseph De Hope responded, "Negotiations are still going on."

"From the tone of the letters, it appears that the majority of people in this valley feel negotiations are over."

"We normally don't talk about negotiations in public," he said, but he added, "teachers have already received an increase in salary."

"Every time they advance on the scale, they get an automatic salary increase whether they're good, bad or indifferent."

"Unless they're at the top of the scale, they've been given an increase," De Hope said.

"A lot of the things in the letters are not true ... or understandable to the public."

Judy Tucker, a representative of the American Federation of Teachers, said the letters were a "reflection of a lot of frustration of teachers."

Silver bowl to a V.A. heroine

LIVERMORE — Mrs. Theresa M. Doten of the American Red Cross received a Veteran's Administration Silver Bowl last week from James M. Fleenor, director of the Livermore V.A. Hospital, for 10,000 hours of volunteer work.

She was honored during the Volunteer Recognition Ceremony held at the Veteran's Memorial Building in Livermore. More than 160 volunteers, guests and staff members attended the dinner.

Mrs. Doten began her volunteer work at the Livermore V.A. Hospital in 1967 after she had been a patient at the hospital. The 10,452 hours she accumulated in the past nine years are the equivalent of five years full-time work.

Livermore's V.A. Hospital has 579 volunteers on its active list who contributed more than 56,000 hours of service to veterans during the past year.

RISE at San Ramon

DANVILLE — A proposal for an alternative education program for San Ramon High School recently questioned by the school board will be implemented this fall.

The San Ramon Valley Unified School District board had said it would approve no more alternative programs.

But, under a new title, "San Ramon High School Proposal for RISE Implementation," the school within a school proposal got unanimous board approval this week.

The state RISE (Reform of Intermediate and Secondary Education) Commission has made 26 recommendations for improving education, and the San Ramon High School program addresses 13 of these.

Basically, the program calls for students to have more choices and responsibility in their education. It allows them to take two classes from the regular school program and two from the more individualized program.

Trustees Joseph De Hope and Jane Upp, absent during the original discussion of the program, said they thought the program was well organized.

Psychic feels 'responsible'

(Editor's note: Because of the wide interest shown in the story, "Pleasant Woman Has Psychic Ability," which ran in the Pleasanton/Valley Times on April 15, it was decided to follow up with another story to try to further explain the phenomena of psychics)

By LILLY AULT

Dee Lillegard, a young, petite psychic "feels a heavy responsibility" goes with being a psychic and that its remedy is to help or to further a cause of some kind, not for play or curiosity.

From the last article that appeared in the paper, Dee received calls from people who had problems which they were deeply concerned. When Dee felt the person needed some additional strength or guidance to just help to face each day, she would agree, without charging, to make a tape on the individual.

This tape would be made by Dee sitting and going into a deep concentration on her contact and coming up with events and information which would make no sense to her, but when the person involved would hear the tape, it was some comfort in aiding them to see, understand, and live with the problem on a day to day basis.

On one tape she did for a lady in Castro Valley, she received a call from the subject and was told how the tape helped her and that 94 percent of what she came up with was correct.

Dee shares the concern of many people who are "disturbed" by what they see happening in the psychic phenomena because she feels there are many "charlatans" at work. However, she was quick to add, "there are just as many gullible people."

Though her 10 years of research in the area of physics, Dee states that there is a "solid research" in the psychic area and that it is "often overlooked by people who want to get carried away."

Although she is fully aware of this problem, Dee feels there are "good psychics at work whose image must suffer as long as the charlatans thrive." She feels people must use their best intelligence and be honest with themselves in consulting a psychic.

She goes on to say, "psychics as well have an obligation to be honest and use their best intelligence."

"Unfortunately," she says, "there are people who consult psychics for easy answers and that there are psychics who give these quick, easy example of Jean Dixon who lives in Washington, D.C. therefore she can handle political predictions.

The Lillegard home displays walls of books which the psychic uses daily in her research work.

She went on to state that Dr. Robert Leichter, who does accurate medical diagnosis for other physicians was once a practicing physician. "Therefore," she says, "he is not talking about something he doesn't understand and is able to use medical terminology very easily."

Dee's studies and research have lead her into the machinations of human psyche as a whole. She approaches people's minds as a spelunker approaches and explores caves. This extremely intelligent psychic, tends to be very tuned in to "character" rather than health or physical conditions.

Dee feels that a lot of our "so-called fate" is inherited into our human character as well as our physical condition is related to mental traits.

There are many psychics, in Dee's opinion, who concentrate on past life readings, but Dee feels these past life experiences make good analysis to present life circumstances.

"No one," according to Dee, "has proven reincarnation. Therefore," says Dee, people who are going to readers like this, should apply what they are getting to their own present life situations instead of relegating them to another existence."

Dee strongly believes there are those psychics with particular "beliefs" or "hangups" who "thrust" this upon their clients as "absolute truths."

She feels these people may have genuine psychic ability, but that it is difficult to separate that from the rigmarole.

Dee, who is also a writer, (many of her writings have appeared in national magazines) relates that prophecy and poetry were originally, centuries ago, considered to be one and the same thing.

Her psychic ability she says, "seems to be inspired," yet she cannot explain where this inspiration comes from or how it "comes to or through me."

It often involves "powerful feelings" at which she is at a loss to explain, "yet," she says, "when I am recording, I not only use this inspiration, but my intelligence as well."

"The Ancient Hebrew," she says, "made a distinction between legitimate and illegitimate prophecy. They considered prophecy legitimate only if the prophet remained in full possession of his critical faculties. 'In other words,' she continued, 'he was to use his best intelligence and not relinquish it. He was to accept the responsibility for his words.'"

According to Dee this kind of prophecy is in the central features of higher religions, it does not necessarily mean prediction, though prediction is a part of it."

Here Dee quotes from First Corinthians, Chapter 4, Oxford Edition of the new testament, "put love first, but there are other gifts of the spirit at which you should aim also, and above all, prophecy. When a man prophesizes he is talking to men and his words have power to build, they stimulate and they encourage."

Dee uses her "reference library" for her continued research into understanding the psychic phenomena.

answers because they have stopped learning and growing because they now think they have all the answers."

To Dee this is sad. She feels no one ever knows enough. "The more anyone knows, the better he will be at whatever he is doing, including psychics," she says.

For this reason, Dee never ceases to stop her researching by reading and talking with those who may know more than herself. Her home displays walls of books which serve constantly for references.

"Life is so extremely complex," she went on to say. "Human beings must live in a universe of 'infinite' mystery in infinite variations. If we are striving to understand that universe," she says, "we cannot neglect the sciences and discoveries of our time."

Dee agrees with Swiss psychoanalyst, Carl Gustav Jung, that physics and psychology parallel and one day will be brought together.

Dee's great interest in Jung's work leads her into the study of psychology as well as many different religions and literatures, folk tales, fairy tales, myths and symbolism in general.

Dee believes this kind of knowledge is "one key" to understanding not only dreams, which she has studied in depth, but psychic impressions as well.

"Being a psychic," says Dee, "means you must come in contact with a wide variety of people and experiences and if the psychic's mind is not expansive you will only be able to deal with a limited group in a limited way."

Dee is not interested in doing "shallow readings" that could apply to anyone. "Every tape I do," she says, "is unique as every person is unique and different."

To Dee, it seems that psychics do best with what they are familiar with. Here she stated an

Fallon fire and other mistakes

The destruction of one ancient wood-frame house in a fire training exercise was regrettable, stupid and somewhat tragic. But it was nothing compared to the conflagration of emotion which has followed that incident.

Preservation of old places and recapturing our "colorful past" is a campaign dear to all of us. Not every structure built 100 years ago or more can be saved; not all of them are worth saving.

The abode once occupied by Jeremiah Fallon fell close to that latter category. There was once considerable doubt (and the thinking on this is still divided) that Fallon House could be or should be restored. Vandals had reduced that modest Foothill Road dwelling to a shadow of its original image. The high cost of restoration and removal leading to doubtful public use left many history buffs questioning the venture's worth.

The restoration was only revived after City of Pleasanton came through to "underwrite" a $3000 pledge, which in turn prompted County of Alameda to give another $30,000 in taxpayers' funds.

Now that the structure has been burned to the ground, there are some (not Pleasanton taxpayers) to suggest that "the city should rebuild an exact replica of Fallon House" which would then be relocated some two miles from the original site. Would they also use plastic lumber to complete the charade?

The determination to "rekindle history at any price" gets a little ridiculous when it comes down to duplicating heritage structures on brand new sites, with brand new wood, and at a cost probably 50 times that which made up the original investment.

We would anticipate reparation from those over-eager firemen, who came from departments as distant as Livermore and Danville, and as close as Dublin and Pleasanton, by the way.

But please, let's not start rebuilding history. There ought to be enough phony "authenticity" in Disneyland for people who like their history fantasized.

Fireman's image

Speaking of fantasies, we would hope the public would be sharp enough to see through that "vote of no confidence" handed down by Pleasanton Firefighters Local 1974 in their evaluation of the department's bosses.

The firemen have never appreciated the no-nonsense policies set forth by Walter McCloud since he became Director of Safety Services. The crew would like to see McCloud removed and "a chief of our own" returned to that post.

This is a policy question which the city council must resolve in seeking to maintain an expensive but vital service at the lowest possible cost. It is not a decision which should evolve out of the burning of Fallon House, and it must certainly not arise from "the bad reputation Pleasanton firefighters are getting from all this publicity."

Restructuring the fire department in order to restore the fireman's image makes about as much sense as trying to recapture history by rebuilding Fallon House. They are both fantasies the overtaxed property owner can do without.

Yes on schools

The education of our young must always rank as a top priority, no matter what our individual status might be.

To assure a quality education, the school must have adequate instructional materials and supplies, dedicated teachers and classified employees and, preferably, a good atmosphere.

When the state virtually forces the local school districts to provide more and more support for their respective programs, the alternatives are narrowed to either continued cutbacks of the budget or seeking revenue limit increases.

Residents of the Pleasanton and Amador school districts have come to expect nothing short of a quality education for their children.

To provide them with anything less would be a breach of faith.

It is also painfully evident that the school districts are part of a long, continual line waiting to get a shot at the taxpayer's pocketbook. Hardly a day passes without discussion of another tax proposal, or a "super sewer," raises for municipal or county employees.

But we believe the foundation for all society is at least partly built in our schools.

With this in mind, The Times strongly recommends that residents of the Amador and Pleasanton school districts cast a "YES" vote for Measure A (Amador revenue limit increase) and Measure B (Pleasanton revenue limit increase) on Tuesday, June 8.

Legalized bingo

We can't recall when the last senior citizen or clergyman was arrested following a "Bingo Bust." And that's just the point, the "illegality" of bingo games has been honored more in the breach than in the enforcement of some vague law.

Neither do we understand why it takes a constitutional amendment to keep bingo players out of jail. But if that's what it takes, then that's what we must do.

Proposition 9 on your June ballot

REP. STARK

Prop. 15

by Rep. Fortney H. (Pete) Stark

Proposition 15, the nuclear safeguard initiative, deserves careful consideration by all Californians. It is an honest effort to protect our lives and property from nuclear disaster. It was put on the ballot because the state Legislature failed to respond to a desperate public plea for help.

I normally oppose "legislation in the streets" because I believe it is the responsibility of elected representatives to foresee and eliminate threats to public safety, property and the environment. When the legislators do not act expeditiously and responsibly, and a problem grows severe, the people have an absolute right to take matters into their own hands, through legal channels.

Proposition 15 is on the June 8 ballot because lawmakers failed to enact laws that would assure protection from radioactive waste, sabotage of nuclear plants, nuclear plant failure and property loss from a nuclear accident. The initiative, born of a deep sense of frustration and desperation, finally forced the Legislature to draft bills that would provide nuclear safeguards. Although the so-called Warren bills fall short of the protection proposed by Proposition 15, I believe they provide a reasonable method for the Legislature to assess the advisability of future nuclear development.

If the bills fail, I will vote "yes." If the bills pass and become law, I will vote "no" on Proposition 15.

Opponents of Proposition 15 include some of the largest utilities and corporations in the nation. They have contributed millions of dollars to conduct a public relations campaign against the initiative.

It should be kept in mind that these industries, such as Westinghouse, General Electric, Exxon, Southern California Edison and PG&E have an immense financial stake in nuclear power. They believe the initiative threatens corporate profits.

On the other hand, the people of California have a larger stake in protecting themselves, their families and property from nuclear disaster. I believe people are more important than corporate profits, and have a right to exert control over their destinies.

The week in retrospect

School bus bill

Mike Ananos, director of transportation and buildings and grounds for the Amador-Pleasanton school districts, was instrumental in shaping legislation concerning drivers of school buses that is about to be assigned a Senate bill number.

The bill, to be carried through the Senate by Randolph Collier, is the direct result of the Yuba City High School bus crash near Martinez earlier this month.

The legislation was initially drafted by the California School Employees Association and reviewed by Ananos, Paul Monnaga of Fremont Unified School District, and Donald Evans of Napa Valley Unified. The latter two are Ananos' counterparts in their respective districts.

As originally written, the bill would have eliminated some forms of transportation for school children.

Ananos, Monnaga and Evans rewrote the bill to include two principal points, 1) All drivers who transport children must hold the same school bus certificate as the regular drivers of school buses and, 2) All charter buses that are going to transport school children must be certified each year. This point pre-supposes a safety check, though it is not specifically detailed.

The revised legislation was worked over last week in the CSEA offices in Sacramento and then reviewed with Collier in his capitol office.

Copies have been sent to the California Highway Patrol and state Department of Education.

Ananos was recently elected president of the California Association of School Transportation Officials. He is a knowledgeable and thorough man and certainly the right man to review any such legislation as will be carried by Collier, the Senate's resident curmudgeon.

In retrospect, their is considerable controversy over whether the school bus disaster that killed 28 Yuba City students could have been prevented.

Ananos was at the scene shortly after the 26-year old bus plunged through the guard rail of the off ramp and landed on its roof 30-feet below.

The driver, Evan Prothero, is still in serious condition and unable to talk over what happened.

Prothero had a Class I license, which permits the holder to drive semis and large trucks. Though the vehicle he drove was a school bus it was being operated as a charter.

Ananos notes that all Amador and Pleasanton school bus drivers have a Class II license from the Department of Motor Vehicles plus a certificate attesting to their proficiency with the vehicle they'll be driving.

Additionally, a prospective Amador-Pleasanton driver serves initially in "cadet" status with an experienced driver.

It might also be noted, for those parents who are concerned about the subject, that the annual school bus inspection report is scheduled for the Wednesday, June 2 meeting of the Pleasanton Joint School District trustees.

Letters to the Times

Radioactive coal

Editor, The Times:

An open letter to the citizens of Livermore who attended the AAUW — League of Women Voters debate at Granada High School, May 19. Subject: Prop. 15.

I spoke at the above debate representing the Yes on 15 position. In the closing statement one of the No on 15 speakers, Ted Lannin from GE, made a statement that I feel needs public exposure.

In his closing statement, Mr. Lannin said that a recent (March 1976) EPA paper said that coal fired plants released 4000 times the amount of radioactivity under normal operations than nuclear power plants and in addition released other dangerous chemicals.

He was quoting from a paper presented to the EPA BY AN OFFICIAL of Westinghouse Corporation. This is a far far cry from an EPA document or EPA paper as he said. It is misleading to imply that the prestigious EPA issued these ridiculous numbers.

The truth is that nuclear emits more radioactivity than coal when the entire fuel cycle is taken into account.

This is the predicament that the public faces constantly from the nuclear — industrial — complex and utilities promoting one side of the controversy. By open legislative review of the most critical nuclear issues, citizens of California will be able to evaluate on the basis of all available evidence, the safety of nuclear power plants.

Valley counseling

Editor, The Times:

The Twin Valley Counseling Services wishes to thank you for the publicity you so graciously extended to us in publicizing our Third Annual Folk Concert. The pictures and articles were great, and we are sure that having this kind of exposure was a factor in the show's success.

It is only through the help and generosity of concerned people in the community willing to give of their time and talents, that others in the community in need of help may benefit.

Buenas Vidas Youth Ranch

Editor, The Times:

Some time ago, I began watching the efforts of a group attempting to launch the Buenas Vidas Youth Ranch. For awhile, I respected their approach to the matter by seeking volunteer community involvement to bring the idea to fulfillment. But now, as is so often the case, the method has become one of trying to find a place at the tax-supported public watering hole.

The Ranch is just a different means to the same end, youth problems, that other agencies on the Alameda County payroll are dealing with. More duplication of purpose, that's the reason the idea didn't get instant approval from the County Supervisors its first time before them. Just what is the program, Horizons doing for the youth of the community? And how about the Churches, let them get into the act.

I've said it before, there are no more sacred cows; so, schemes with the humanitarian label should get the same hard look from the taxpayers as other tax-supported programs. Recent "Letters to the Editor" of a Valley newspaper concerned the difficulty a family of seven was having as a result of rising taxes. Instead of the taxpayers getting involved in squabbling among themselves, why not go right to the source of rising taxes, the agencies that are tax supported. Put a lid on them by not asking for additional services of questionable need, and see that they provide no more than are really needed at all the levels of government, Federal, State, and Local. You'll often find that people who support "big government" are getting a paycheck out of it some way or other.

If you feel you must support Buenas Vidas' plea to become another tax-supported group with money being paid to those who started it up and are presently volunteering their services, and after all, that's what real community service is all about, unpaid volunteers; you might tie your support to the condition that the County phase out some existing program of equal cost in the same field. Your own children might thank you for it someday, not being faced with a big tax load to pay for excess government agencies and their many questionable services and grants. You may consider my views cynical, but I don't think you'll find them completely unrealistic.

And keep your eyes on that agency that taxes so many to be used by the small groups, the Livermore Area Recreation and Park District.

J.C. Stear
Livermore

Some unions also oppose the initiative. They feel that a slowdown in nuclear plant development will cost jobs. I think this argument is invalid, and labor leaders have privately agreed with me.

If the initiative passes, and safety standards set up by the initiative cannot be met, and demand for power grows, alternative sources will have to be developed and built. Labor will be called upon to contribute, regardless of what kinds of plants are decided upon.

Famous scientists, environmentalists and consumer advocates have raised serious questions about the advisability and feasibility of relying on nuclear power for future energy. Responsible studies have linked the spread of nuclear power to the proliferation of nuclear weapons. Nuclear material for peaceful power can be used to make bombs, as India has proven.

There are many arguments pro and con that should be considered. Experts disagree widely, and this fact alone warrants a closer examination of what continued nuclear development, without proper safeguards, means to mankind.

The consequences of an accident would be catastrophic and affect the citizens of California for generations to come.

Round the town

I have uncovered a scandal of major proportions. It concerns the upcoming primary balloting. Actually, it concerns those who will vote by "absentee ballot" in advance of that June 8 session.

The rest of you are stuck with Carter, Brown, Ford, Reagan, and so on. Not what I would call "presidential timber." But not so those who were smart enough to apply for absentee ballots.

VOTE FOR ONE I am advised by the little white paper. And then they give me three choices — George Washington ... Thomas Jefferson ... Abraham Lincoln.

"I had no idea we were being given this kind of choice for president," the lady of the house said in examining the goodies in her Absentee Ballot packet. "It certainly beats anything they've offered us to date."

Looking over those names, I had to agree. George Washington instead of Ronnie Reagan? Tom Jefferson pinch hitting for Jimmy Carter!! Abe Lincoln rather than Jerry Brown?! It seemed too good to be true.

Unfortunately, it was.

"That appears to be just a sample ballot listing to help give us instructions," I announced, sadly. "The names of the real candidates and issues are listed over here on this other sheet, the one attached to the styrofoam pad."

And sure enough, there was Ronnie and Jerry and the rest of the same old names we have been bombarded with for lo' these many months. It was quite a disappointment, I hope to tell you.

Beyond that, voting by absentee ballot is still quite a thrill. You get a large manila envelope crammed with all kinds of interesting junk, including a smaller manila envelope in which you ship most of it back again.

Punch out dot on ballot card over the number of your choice for candidate or 'Yes' or 'No' on measures.

"This is getting to sound terribly complicated," she said. "Which number are you punching out on the presidential primary?"

"The right to vote in secrecy is one of this nation's cherished privileges," I replied. "Men have died to defend the secret ballot. Why should I destroy all that now just because you can't make up your own mind?"

"It is not a question of making up my mind," she answered, testily. "It's just these stupid rules and this complicated number-punching business. I want to vote for Gerald Ford, not for some number I don't even know."

"You vote for Ford by punching out No. 6," I explained.

"Let me see how you're doing it," she asked, cleverly.

"If I show what number I am punching, then you will know who I am voting for, and that is against my constitutional rights," I assert, mightily.

We move on to the question of our choice for the United States Senate.

"There are an awful lot of people listed here that I never even heard of," she says. "Does No. 28 impress you more than 31?"

"I was sort of leaning toward 44," I reply.

"44! How can you be on 44 already?? Are you skipping ahead just to be sneaky?"

All of this conversation is accompanied by a great deal of punching ... through the number on the ballot and right on through the styrofoam backing. It is creating quite a mess.

Once you get the hang of it, the whole process moves along rather smoothly, although quite time-consuming.

"If every voter has to go through this same process on June 8, balloting will take all night," she says. "I can't believe they would turn out tens of thousands of these silly styrofoam pads for very voter in the county."

I suggest that the system on June 8 might be somewhat different. People will stand in front of an impressive little box to do their voting. But the numbers game is the same.

"I feel sorry for people who are a bit short upstairs and who tackle this blessed ballot on June 8."

"I am beginning to feel sorry for those who have all their marbles but who still can't match up names with numbers," she replies. "What number did you punch out for Zone 7? Do you think No. 90 is a better bet than 93?"

"This is getting to sound like a bingo game, which is No. 115 by the way, if you want to keep senior citizens and the Catholic Church happy."

"Do you plan to vote on all the propositions?" she asks. "Proposition 15 is the only one I have any firm convictions on ... OH! ... I think I made a mistake! Do you punch 131 if you want MORE nuclear power or if you want LESS nuclear power? How can I correct this thing? Is there some way to unpunch a number?"

But I have already vacated the living room polling place and am about to punch out a couple of burbon and waters. One thing about absentee balloting, they don't shut down the bar.

Lighter Times

It is time to set the record straight!!

The impetus for doing so comes with the plethora of wills being uncovered almost daily for the late billionaire Howard Hughes' estate.

Then there are those claiming to be the long lost son of the late Charles Lindbergh. Seems the premise is that the child abducted was NOT the Lindbergh baby.

Well, I've got a shocker to lay on ya!

I am the son of the late Amelia Earhart, the famed aviatrix.

Very few people know it, but "mom" did marry. She wasn't in the air all the time!

As proof, there's my middle name—same as Amelia's last. Only difference is

I spell it more Germanically —Ehrhardt.

Being as there's been little solid evidence on how "mom" perished, there's no chance to sue anybody or any known "will." Two of the theories advanced on how Amelia died include capture and execution by Japanese forces (in the Howland Island chain in the South Pacific before World War II) and a crash landing in the Pacific.

If the former were correct, there'd be a chance to sue for damages. Might windup with part of an island or a piece of downtown Tokyo.

On the other hand, if you don't believe I've got a very strong case, would you believe I'm the son of Judge Crater?

For Sunday, May 30, 1976

ARIES (March 21-April 19) Impromptu things are fun today, but you can really have a ball if you plan some diversion that involves the family.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) A bright, but complex, idea may sudden pop into your head while you're talking to someone today. Take time to make notes.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Something profitable may be staring you in the face today. You may not recognize it unless you stop to think in terms of what this could mean to others.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) Early in the day you may have some things on your mind that require serious thinking. Wrap them up so that you have time for relaxation later.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) If you have an important decision to make, find a quiet spot. Mull it over by yourself. You'll concentrate better if you have peace and solitude.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Get your mind off weighty matters today. Do something that's fun and totally unrelated to your worldly concerns.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) Important things may be far removed from your mind today, but an opportunity may come up that could have great benefits. Be ready.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) You may have trouble finding solutions to your problems today, but you have the ability to help others find the answers they're seeking.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 19) Few can pull the wool over your eyes today, but if a person you're fond of tells you a little white lie, don't embarrass them by exposing it.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Today, if others put down a pal of yours who's not too sharp, step in and help him. You have the answers.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) A clever friend who usually knows how to gain his goals could show you how to get around a problem that has stymied you.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) If you're at a social gathering today, don't just hang around old friends. Circulate. You could make a valuable new contact.

Your Birthday
May 30, 1976
There's good news on the financial horizon for you this coming year. You might even get an unexpected raise. Do your best job, for you never know who's watching.

Cincy nips LA, takes 1st place

CINCINNATI (AP) — Ken Griffey tripled home the tying run with two out in the ninth inning and scored on Joe Morgan's single, capping a three-run rally against Los Angeles relief ace Mike Marshall that gave the Cincinnati Reds to a 6-5 victory over the Dodgers Saturday.

The nationally televised triumph also lifted the Reds back into first place in the National League's West Division, five percentage points ahead of the Dodgers, who have dropped four of their last five games.

Los Angeles starter Rick Rhoden had settled down after falling behind 2-0 in the first inning but was relieved by Marshall, 3-2, after Dave Concepcion opened the ninth with a single, the 10th hit off Rhoden.

Cesar Geronimo greeted Marshall with a single and pinch hitter Ed Armbrister sacrificed. Concepcion scored on Pete Rose's infield out but Griffey tripled off the wall in rightcenter and scored on Morgan's single to center.

Kulink upsets Cowboy star

Amador Valley's Karin Kulink utilized a down-the-line strategy to take two straight sets from Livermore High's previously unbeaten Lori Larson to clinch a gold medal in the East Bay Athletic League Girls Tennis Tourney held Friday in Pleasanton. Kulink went 7-5, 6-3 to avenge two earlier league losses to Larson, winning the championship in the first singles event.

The Amador senior took an easy 6-1, 6-1 match over

Dublin's Carol Allen earlier in the day and then took on Granada's talented sophomore Dana Sorem. Sorem had defeated Kulink on two previous occasions, but the Amador netter pulled out a tough one, 6-3, 5-7, 6-3, to earn a spot in the finals.

Kulink returned shots at a faster pace than Larson was apparently accustomed to, and some well-placed line shots gave Kulink the edge.

"She has made some important adjustments toward the end of the season," explained Amador coach Paul Zarcone. "She has been working on her serve and her attitude."

"I just wanted to win badly," commented Kulink afterwards.

Larson, a junior, defeated Foothill's Diane Look 6-1, 6-1 and San Ramon's Keely Powell 6-0, 6-1 to enter the final match. Larson captured a silver medal for her effort, while Allen went on to defeat Look 7-5, 6-2 to win a bronze medal.

In the second singles competition, Livermore's Stephanie Schall downed Amador's Marilyn Morrell 6-2, 6-3 to take the championship. Morrell took home a silver medal while Granada's Sylvia Knell won the consolation bracket with a 6-0, 6-3 victory over Dublin netter Cheryl Smith.

San Ramon's doubles teams took both championships as the Debbie Fritts-Kirstin Johannsson two-some delivered a 6-4, 6-3 blow to Amador's Lisa Estrada and Denise Crall to take the first doubles title, while the team of Stephanie Sibilia and Chris Lozano from Dublin managed to nab third place with a 6-3, 6-4 win over Monte Vista's Amy Hopper and Lori Hyman.

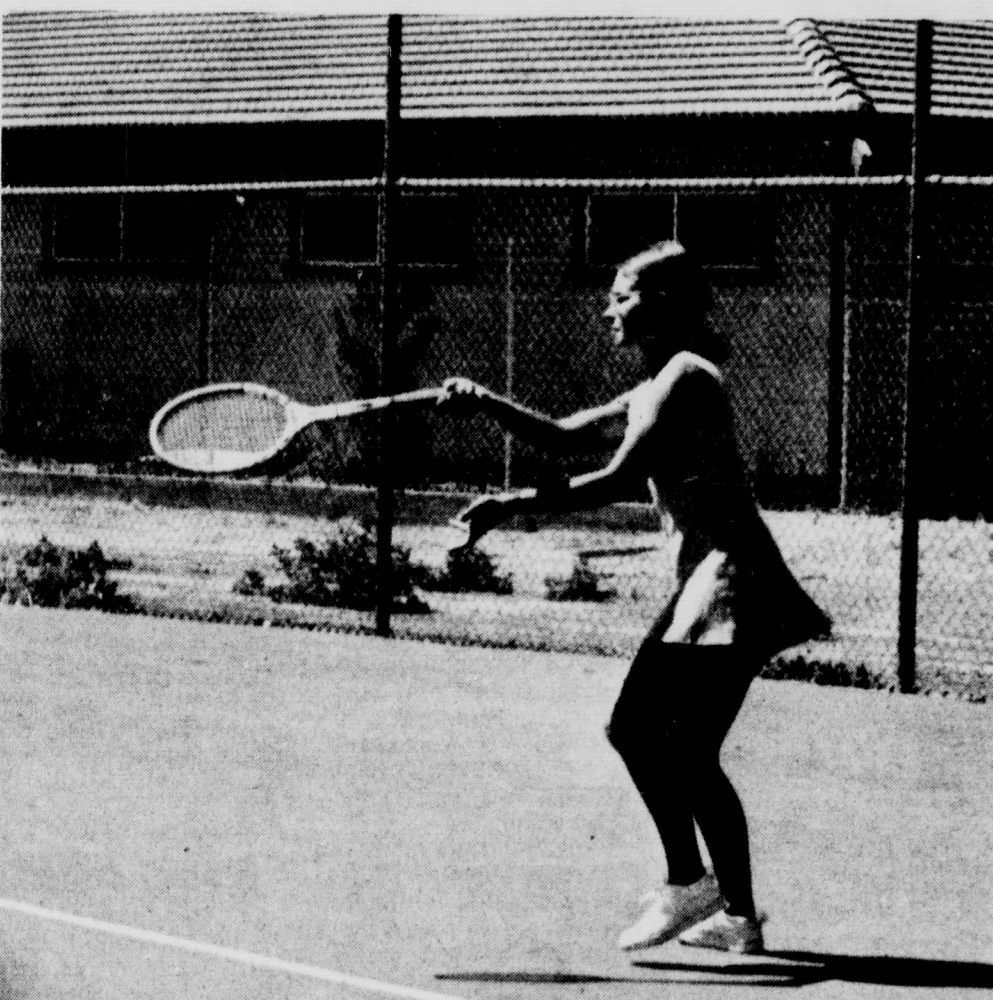

In the second doubles contest, JoAnn Boss and Tia Welch of San Ramon grabbed a gold medal by virtue of a 6-1, 6-1 win over Livermore's Cindy Custer-Mary Pat Schall duo, while consolation champs were Shannon Beale and Margaret Cockerton of Monte Vista.

SUPERVISOR JOHN D. MURPHY LED THE FIGHT FOR FULL WIDENING OF INTER-STATE 580.

Re-Elect John D. Murphy, Supervisor

Paid for by Committee to Re-Elect Murphy

The Dons jumped off to a 3-0 lead in the bottom of the second on a two-run double by John Connolly and a squeeze bunt by Mark Bevilacqua.

Shortstop Mike Johnson scrambled to pick up the Dons next run in the third. He walked, stole second and, after moving to third on an infield single and came home when a pitchout by El Cerrito hurler Doug Frost went for a wild pitch.

The Dons final runs came unearned in the fifth, with an RBI single by Connolly Amador's only contribution to the gift rally.

A detailed report on the Dons' runner-up season will appear Wednesday.

FRUIT-VEGETABLE GROUP

While all fruits and vegetables are included in this Group, those valuable as sources of vitamin C and vitamin A are emphasized.

Recommended Amounts: Four or more servings every day, including 1 serving of a good source of vitamin C or 2 servings of a fair source; 1 serving, at least every other day, of a good source of vitamin A. If the food chosen for vitamin C is also a good source of vitamin A, the additional serving of a vitamin A food may be omitted. The remaining 1 to 3 or more servings may be any vegetable or fruit, including those valuable for their vitamin C and vitamin A. Count as 1 serving: 1/2 cup of vegetable or fruit; or a portion as ordinarily served, such as 1 medium apple, banana, orange, or potato, half a medium grapefruit or cantaloupe.

Good Sources of Vitamin C: Grapefruit or grapefruit juice, orange or orange juice, cantaloupe, guava, mango, papaya, fresh strawberries, broccoli, brussels sprouts, green pepper, sweet red pepper.

Fair Sources of Vitamin C: Honeydew melon, lemon, tangerine or tangerine juice, watermelon, asparagus tips, raw cabbage, cauliflower, collards, garden cress, kale, kohlrabi, mustard greens, potatoes and sweet potatoes cooked in the jacket, rutabagas, spinach, tomatoes or tomato juice, turnip greens.

Sources of Vitamin A: Dark-green and deep-yellow vegetables and a few fruits, namely: apricots, broccoli, cantaloupe, carrots, chard, collards, cress, kale, mango, persimmon, pumpkin, spinach, sweet potatoes, turnip greens and other dark-green leaves, winter squash.

Contribution to Diet: Fruits and vegetables are valuable chiefly for their vitamins and minerals. In this plan, this group is counted on to furnish nearly all the vitamin C needed and over half of the vitamin A. Vitamin C is needed for healthy gums and body tissues, while vitamin A is needed for growth, normal vision and healthy condition of skin and other body surfaces.
